A QUICK NOTE

Before I give the floor, or catalogue, back to our lovely PR-member Marèl, I (Charlie (Tall)) would like to take this page to explain a small but significant change since previous years.

As it happens, DressMe has changed the way their pricing works somewhat, which makes it impossible for us to give you any definite prices in this catalogue, except for the handmade shirts(!!!).

The rest of the prices are simply an estimation on the more bleak side, so chances are the costs might go down during our ordering process. This is why we want to ask you not to transfer any money to the bank account yet until we send out the confirmation emails with the correct total.

I have complete faith that our merch will make up for any confusion this may cause!

With love,
Charlie
